Man-Killer Bill Boyd Returns To Westside Auditorium Friday

With Man-Killer Sailor Bill Boyd of the U. S. S. Idaho holding the spotlight at the Westside Auditorium, 645 West Anaheim street, Long Beach, this Friday night, fight fans have been clamoring for reservations to see the navy heavyweight idol in action again. With the Westside's first installment of their new mezzanine floor seeing service last Friday night, they wish they had room to seat at least 2,000 more fans this Friday night that will want to welcome Boyd's return. Man-Killer Boyd has fought four fights at the Westside and has turned close to 4,000 fans away in as many starts. And incidentally Boyd has won all four of his fights by a first-round knockout. The navy is absolutely sold on his pugilistic ability and declare he is the greatest heavyweight in the world today, barring none.

Westside officials received a wire from Boyd last Friday to the effect that he was anxious to get into ring action again. He stated he has been training constantly on board the Idaho and is in the best shape of his career. This fact bodes no good for Harry Swanson, the man who has been picked to oppose Boyd. Harry, however, has always proven his ability to take a great deal of punishment without wincing. Friday night he will have every opportunity to prove to the fans he can take it when he meets up with Boyd. Westside officials are confident that Swanson will be able to stand up to Boyd and make him go the full four-round limit. Swanson in his battle with Francis Marke some months ago was able to take all that Marke had to offer and come back for more. If this is any criterion of Swanson's ability to take it, then it is felt that Boyd will have to extend himself to win in four rounds, and will have a whole of a job on his hands to knock him out in one round as he has done the four opponents he has previously had at the Westside.

In the semi-windup that will really be a main event in itself, Fighting Bob Eagan, the Long Beach boy, the boy who beat Buddy Beck last Friday, will tangle with the light heavyweight champion of the C.C.C. camp, Tiger Woods, the man who in his last fight here stopped Bob Weeks in two rounds.

The curtain raiser will go on at 8:30 p. m.
